SUMMER TIDBIT
As years tick on we frequently acknowledge that passing with some sort of remembrance. Think of a birthday, wedding anniversary, high school graduation, years with a particular company, serving in a special position or as a volunteer, or even the passage of the years of an organization.

Some are first time events like high school graduation, the birth of a baby or a retirement party. Others mark the number of years that have gone by since the original event occurred. Sometimes they are extra special just by their number like 10, 25 or 50. How many of these events were part of your life this past summer?

In June I had the privilege of celebrating my 50th high school reunion. It was held in my hometown of Mechanicsburg, PA. The 3-day event was attended by about 80 or so classmates, plus spouses and friends. Since graduation I have only seen these people at reunions because I moved away from home four days after graduation, never to return. I observed some interesting dynamics. The cliques were gone, the spouses and friends appeared to be as welcomed and included as the classmates, and everyone has a genuine concern for each other. The class has gotten closer as the years have passed by.

When it was over I was sad. I won’t see any of those folks for the next five years until the 55th reunion (assuming I can travel the 1100 mile round trip), not at the store or gas station, a play or musical presentation, or even the doctor’s office. Many of you have the privilege to live where you grew up. I challenge you to enjoy each celebration you attend whether it is big or small, public or private. Renew those relationships. If you see someone out somewhere, don’t be embarrassed to ask if you know each other or how you know each other. You will be the winner for that conversation. Some phrases I’ve used are: “Don’t I know you from somewhere?” or “How do I know you?”. Sometimes neither of us can figure it out so we just laugh and move on, maybe the next time.

CHALLENGING TIDBIT
When telling each other what you have been doing you could mention ILR. Tell them about the classes you’re taking and invite them to a class, luncheon or trip. I’ve done that and have several times been able to add them to our mailing list so they receive the newsletters. This is another way we can increase our membership and meet new friends. I hope you will put some of these ideas into practice and I look forward to seeing you at the fall kickoff luncheon at Pierce Cedar Creek on Friday, September 18th at 12:00 pm. It would be nice to have a good turnout from Barry and Calhoun counties.

2. Witch Hunts Part 1:
From Salem to McCarthy!
This course will explore the history of two iconic periods in American history when passion and fear seemed to overtake common sense. The first deals with the witchcraft trials in Puritan New England, culminating in the notorious Salem witch trials of the 1690s. Drawing on the story of her ancestress, Mary Bliss Parsons (who was tried and acquitted twice), Mary Butler will discuss the factors which led to the witchcraft hysteria. The second class will focus on the 1950s and the witch hunt for Communists instigated by Senator Joseph McCarthy between 1950 and 1954. The televised Army-McCarthy hearings captured the attention of the nation and eventually led to the Wisconsin Senator’s censure and decline. The class will also include the role of local Representative August E. Johansen as a member of the infamous 1960 House Committee Un-American Activities (HUAC) hearings at Berkeley, California.

Tuesdays Member: $45
Oct 6-Oct 27 Non-Member: $55
1-3 pm Jan Drolen

3. Witch Hunts Part 2:
Arthur Miller’s The Crucible
In this class students will continue exploration of witch hunts through reading and discussion of Arthur Miller’s classic work, The Crucible. This 1953 play reflects two important events in American history - the Salem witch trials and the McCarthy era Communist witch hunts. Miller, who studied at the University of Michigan, had always wanted to write about Salem but was moved to do so when he was called to testify by McCarthy before the Un-American Activities Committee. This class will study The Crucible and how accurately it may or may not reflect McCarthyism. Focus will also be placed on the changes Miller made to the Salem story to fit his dramatic purposes and will examine his philosophy of tragic drama. Clips from the 1996 film based on the play and starring Daniel Day-Lewis and Winona Ryder will supplement readings and discussion. Course fee includes a copy of the play that students can keep.

7. Art and Social Justice
Social justice is the view that everyone deserves equal economic, political and social rights and opportunities. Movements to create a more socially just society are a part of our past, present and future, and range from human rights work to affordable health care, access to education and more. Come to this class and explore historic and contemporary social justice movements as seen through art and creative expression. People working to problem-solve around hunger, environment, homelessness, literacy, peace, and civil rights, among many other topics, have long used arts in campaigns to raise awareness, and to engage and educate people on complex issues. During the class you will be asked about causes of interest to you, then choose one topic and arts medium (e.g. poetry, painting, slogan, pin/button, poster, etc.) do a quick visual or auditory depiction that you can briefly share with others if you choose.

8. Colonial Women: Important Figures in our History
This class will explore colonial women as groups and important individuals that contributed to making our county what it is today. The lives of women of Native American heritage as well as European, African, Hispanic and Chinese will be compared and contrasted, with emphasis placed on how different the American experience was for each group. More well-known women such as Pocahontas and Abigail Adams will be highlighted, and so will some lesser known but still important figures such as Mercy Warren and Eliza Pinckney.

In 1788 the newly formed United States of America conducted its first ever presidential election. Until that time, no country in the history of the world had ever elected a citizen to be the head of its government. George Washington was elected to be the first president of the United States, but since that time there have been 43 others whose elections varied from the monumental to a mere footnote in our nation’s history. In 2016 the United States will once again go to the polls to elect a new president. In this new class, Terry Newton will take you from the election of Washington to the upcoming 2016 election with stories about the candidates, issues of the times and the outcomes from each presidential election.

10. Money Smart: Avoiding Scams, Financial Exploitation and Identity Theft
“That will never happen to me.” Yet it does, every single day. Financial exploitation has been called “the crime of the 21st century” with older Americans losing nearly $3 billion in 2014.
This epidemic is under the radar, but become a victim and you could lose your life savings, your ability to live independently, and even your health. Awareness and prevention are the first steps. Planning ahead for financial well-being and the possibility of diminished financial capacity is critical. Reporting and early intervention that results in loss prevention is imperative. Presented by the 3B Area Agency on Aging, Money Smart for Older Adults is designed to provide you with tools and resources to help you or a family member avoid becoming a victim. Information on how to help prevent common frauds, scams and other types of elder financial exploitation will be shared, along with tools on conducting an identity theft self-check and being financially prepared for disasters and unexpected life events.

11. Candle Making: Easy Candle Making for Beginners
Candle making is a craft as old as civilization itself, yet after so many millennia and technological advances, we still love the light, warmth, and beauty of a lit candle. Whether a seasoned artisan or a budding enthusiast, this workshop offers something for everyone interested in learning the craft of candle making. Learn how easy it can be to make beautiful and colorful candles using a simple, no stress method that doesn’t require expensive tools. Students will use a mix of waxes that burn clean (no black smoke) and zinc wicks to make hand-made taper, votive and glass jar candles. Students will choose from a variety of scents, herbs and decorations to create personalized candles for themselves or to give as gifts. The class also includes a mold that can be taken home and used again for future projects.

Please wear comfortable old clothes (this is a hands-on and not always neat and clean) and we guarantee you will have fun while learning.

12. Folklore: It’s Sources and Lingering Impact Today
Did you ever question where a common expression came from or why some people swear that odd concoctions will cure everything from the common cold to deathly ailments? In this class common folklore ("the wisdom of the people") that is primarily handed down by word of mouth will be examined. “Fakelore” figures such as Paul Bunyan and Pecos Bill will not be studied, but sources of common superstitions; home remedies both effective and harmful; weather observations and their accuracy; children's lore (games, beliefs, expressions, etc.); and the origins of expressions that are still commonly used today will be explained and discussed. This class will also look at how oral folklore still influences modern life every day.

13. The Parks of Battle Creek
To celebrate the centennial of Irving Park Mary Butler will explore the history of Battle Creek’s “breathing spaces,” which were so important to early city planners. The class will cover iconic parks, like McCamly and Bailey parks and the Leila Arboretum, as well as some forgotten gems, like Central, Rainbow and Patnbil parks. You will also learn about the people who designed the landscapes and how the names were chosen to honor local heroes. NOTE: No class on November 26.

14. End Paper Clutter Today!
You know it’s there... somewhere... If you have trouble finding what you need when you need it then it’s time to get organized! Join a professional organizer and learn how you can develop a simple filing system and create a daily procedure to help you get control of the piles of paper that have turned your home office, or dining room table, into a fire hazard. We’ll also explore guidelines for deciding what you need to keep and what can be tossed. You’ll be more productive (and happier) with an organized life, and we’re here to help!

16. Arthur Miller’s Death of a Salesman
As 2015 is the Centennial of Arthur Miller’s birth, this class will examine his Pulitzer Prize winning play, Death of a Salesman. This classic tale of the American Dream gone awry is also a scathing critique of American materialism. Through the course students will examine American values and culture through Miller’s brilliant dramatic structure that uses flashbacks to present over 50 years of American history. The play itself takes place in the last 24 hours of salesman Willy Loman’s tragic life as he searches for the moment when his life took an unfortunate turn.

In addition to reading and discussing this powerful play, students will have the opportunity to view film clips based on Death of a Salesman that feature actors such as Dustin Hoffman and John Malkovich. Course fee includes a copy of the play that students can keep.

17. Infinity Scarf Making for Beginners
Wearing a beautiful and colorful scarf can make everyone look polished and fashionable, but unfortunately most of us struggle to tie them in a way that achieves that goal. In this class students will learn to make a simple and easy to wear Infinity Scarf made of yarn. Students will select from a variety of colors and “arm knit” their creation without the use of tools or knitting needles. The result will be a circular scarf that can be easily draped and worn in a multitude of styles, many of which your instructor will demonstrate. No knitting experience is required for this class, just the desire to learn a fun and easy new hobby you can use to create a scarf for yourself or as a gift for others. Course fee includes all materials.

Retires from Teaching

To the ILR Membership:

I have truly loved teaching all of my 34 classes for ILR over the past 14 years. I had extremely nice students in each class, and we always enjoyed getting together each time, and then having our pot luck after the fourth class.

My memory has become quite a bit worse after my open heart surgery and stroke two years ago, when I was 73, and I have decided it's time for me to retire.

I hope to keep writing columns for the Battle Creek Enquirer, but it takes a lot longer because of my continuous problem of remembering words.

Warmest greetings,
Linda Jo Scott

1. The Spanish Civil War
The Spanish Civil War was the precursor to World War II, and it served as the first major military confrontation between fascism and communism in Europe. With the victory of the Nationalists, General Franco ruled Spain in a domineering dictatorship for the next thirty six years. Unexpectedly, Spain emerged from Franco's rule a modern democracy, and now Spain is one of the great tourist attractions of our modern age. This course will focus on three main themes - precursors to the war, the role of ideology in the conflict and Spain's example as a lesson for other nations. Don't let history repeat itself: Learn the lessons of history and apply them to the human experience. Viva Espana!

3. Phone and Email Scams: How to Identify and Avoid Them
Michigan's aging population faces increasingly complex decisions related to health care and financial matters, and senior citizens are often the targets of unscrupulous scam artists. Attend this class presented by the Senior Brigade from Michigan's Attorney General's office and learn how to recognize charitable and other common scams initiated over the phone or by mail/email; reduce unwanted phone calls and junk mail; and report a problem or scam to the authorities. To protect yourself and your loved ones from these scams, you should understand what they are, what they look like, how they work, and what you can do to avoid them.

4. A History of Rock and Roll, with an Eye on American Music
Come to this class and take a journey through time by exploring rock and roll from a historical perspective. In the first class, you will look at the roots of American Music, and the influence of both African music and Scots/Irish music from Appalachia. This exploration will culminate with a look at the uniquely American musician, Elvis Presley. Class two will examine teen culture of the 1950s and see how rock developed. The course will wrap up by moving through the progression of rock and roll until the early seventies, and fittingly end with "the day that music died".

5. Peace of Mind Organization: Planning for the Unexpected

Are your important papers in shambles? Would you be embarrassed to have your children or loved ones see the mess those vitally important documents are in? There is so much to think about in getting your important papers and information together. Even if you are just preparing your documents so they are more easily accessible, you won’t want to miss this important class where we’ll explore the various types of documents you should keep and the best way to organize and store them. You’ll walk away with a sample packet of forms to help you leave your family “the gift” of an organized life. An optional notebook with complete guides and forms will be available for purchase from the instructor for $20

6. Jewelry Basics: Caring for and Securing your Precious Treasures

Come to this class and learn the basics of identifying your jewelry and its materials; taking care of your pieces; and important things to think about before leaving your jewelry with someone for cleaning, repairs, or appraisals. The history and lore of gems and precious metals will also be included. Your instructor for this class has over 40 years of experience in the jewelry repair industry, so it will be packed with useful information. An outline of the information presented will also be provided on which you can take notes for later reference. Come spend some time learning about what makes jewelry so valuable, because this class could easily be worth its weight in gold!

7. A Look at Contemporary Christianity

In this class, Michael Anton will take students on a journey through modern-day Christianity. An overview of Christianity in our culture will be discussed by focusing on cultural influences; shifting focus of younger generations; decline of participation; groups showing growth; the emergent church movement; differing views of church/state relationships; megachurches; and TV and radio religion. Come to this class and realize there is always something new to learn, even about something over 2,000 years old!

8. Our Gang and the Little Rascals: A Trip Down Memory Lane

Spanky, Alfalfa, Darla and Buckwheat - Did you grow up with these kids? In this class we will look at some facts and highlights of the Gangs’ many movies and characters. Historical facts, hysterical films, and the very special people who became these iconic characters will be discussed, with a look at their lives during both the height of their fame and in the years that followed. You are invited to bring any memorabilia, questions and brief testimonials of how the gang touched your life when you were growing up.
