

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Paid caregivers for persons with dementia, family members who provide care for a person with dementia, professionals who work with seniors or persons with dementia and/or caregivers

WHEN

Saturdays, June 9 & 16
9:00 AM-12:00 PM

WHERE

Kellogg Community College
Lane-Thomas Building
Room 304

COST

$75.00 (includes textbook)

To register or for more information contact KCC's Lifelong Learning Department at 269-965-4134 or ll-info@kellogg.edu or Register Online at www.kellogg.edu/register-for-classes

This training is made possible by a grant from the Battle Creek Community Foundation and is a sponsored activity of the Dementia Friendly Battle Creek Initiative. Other in-kind support provided by Home Care Transitions, Inc., Kellogg Community College, WW Thayne (Senior Times), Bronson at Home, and the Alzheimer's Association—Great Lakes Chapter.

Dementia Capable Care Training

Dementia Capable Care is a training and certification course for professional and family caregivers to increase the understanding of dementia and improve communication and care for persons with dementia. The training introduces a best-abilities, person-centered approach to caring for persons with dementia. Participants will learn about the types and stages of dementia, communication tools and techniques, the role of memory and function in terms of a person's best ability to function, behavior management strategies, and supporting families and caregivers.

Participants who complete the course and pass the certification exam will receive a Dementia Capable Care Specialist certification, sponsored by Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI).

